Dear Mrs. Moscatelli,

Your letter of 2/20 to Dell has been forwarded and just reached me.

It is interesting.

Do I understand you to say that you predicted the President would be killed in Dallas, that you expected it? If so, could you elaborate.

There never was any psychiatric evidence on Oswald. The Commission preferred its own amateur psychiatry. Jusdging by what the professionals have done since, it is no loss!

He was in no sense in need of psychiatric attention. What this the official fiction in which the less responsible psychiatrists join-perhaps hoping it will get them more business-but not on the basis of anything solid or dependable.

Thanks for writing.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
